
Tottenham vs Arsenal

Posted by Coolman!!! - 2008/01/21 03:40

The score is tied at 1-1 going into the second leg.

Honestly, we were lucky as Defoe let us off the last time round. Would the kids wake up from their slumber this time? Or will Le Boss axe some of them and put in more first team regular?

Bring on the Spums. Let the kids have a chance to score a big one and convince all critics that there are young English talent coming through the ranks.

Go Gunners!

Replying to ask of Coolman, well, i think that Arsene wenger will keep the team that put playing in the 1st leg. In my opinion he completely believe in their kids. Me too !

Go Gunners, Go Kids !

My prediction: 1-0 to us

Well, i dont know what say...

What´s happened? What is this? our players not honoured(i dont know if this word is right) the t-shirt.

I´m completly disappointed with "this" Arsenal.

I´m completly sad. :(:(:(:(

5-1 ? against tottenham? shi*

It´s football. Same like this i´m proud to be a gooner.

Arsenal until die ! Arsenal 4ever !

its a sad result but its important to note that it is a learning process for the young lads.

effectively, we started with only Gallas and Hleb from the first team while Spum got their whole first team on the pitch.

the result is embarrassing but hopefully, we can learn from this and match on.

Go Gunners!

A very bad result for us :(

What happened? I was so sad....

For me, the sad thing was the big quarrel Gallas had with Bendtner. He totally lost it with the kid.

Sure hope the kids will grow up faster. This only shows our back up is really not strong enough.

Guys Guys, cool it.

its only the first loss to the Spurs in 9 years. Right?
and its only the first loss in 21 games or so for us. Not so bad. right?

relaz. although we have not win anything yet, we will bounce back fiercer in the league.

I have been an Arsenal fan since day . & never have i been as embarrassed as that, i can take losing to any team but 5-1 at tottenham is an impossible pill to swallow however I was there last night & was so angry with the fans who all walked out when we were losing that was wrong, it makes me think if we didn't win week in week out then would they support someone else?

Gilberto is finished
Gallas, how can he come to the club moan about needing to win trophies and play like that.
Fabregas - not fit & was all over the place.
Traore - not good enough
Hoyte - not good enough
Sagna - awful
Helb - i thought did well but as no-one wanted the ball he had to dance with it till he got tackled.
Walcott - what is wenger doing? playing him upfront in this game? play him against Derby or Burnley.... not a semi final & spurs away...
diaby - i USED to think he was brilliant, average is what i think now. he can play left wing.
Fabinski - rubbish.

I really do think it was a massive mistake selling Diarra, why not loan him out as he could have been the key.
I just hope we can bounce back from this & more importantly spurs do not win the cup!

I can't hide my big disappointment. I don't know what is going on. Something must be wrong. And the fight between Ade and Nicklas. What is happening????

Re:Tottenham vs Arsenal

Posted by Coolman!!! - 2008/01/23 17:52

fabregas, the big quarrel was between Ade and Nicklaus. Then Gallas tried to step in and calm things down but Nic then had a go at Gallas too.

Apparently, Nic alleged that Ade had 'headbutted' him. This is crazy. We shd be united at this stage of the season.

Deano81, agreed with most of your comments But can we give Walcott a break? he is only 18 years old. Agreed that Gilberto is a totally different player without his confidence unlike last season.

the rest had an off day. its sad...

And why Lehmann did not play? i have no idea....

Either we can bounce back twice as hard and unite together after this incident or our season ends with this game.

I pray it is NOT the latter...

Sorry, i don't mean to have a go at walcott as i am a big fan.... im disappointed in wenger deciding to play walcott up front in a semi final away from home against our biggest rivals & being marked by ledley king who is also one of the best centre halves in the prem.

Why not play him right wing & 5 in midfield either hleb or diaby helping bendtner, i know we needed to score but spurs were always going to come at us in the first 20 mins & that was where we lost the game last night.

Lehmann didn't play as that would be a total kick in the teeth.... not only has he lost his place but now he is playing with the kids, also wenger really believes in Fabinski although after last night im not so sure.... however everyone does have a bad game!

Agreed with your idea\strategy. maybe 4-5-1 could have suit us much better. We lost the game in the first 20 mins.

I think this loss has affected a lot of the supporters. Everyone is shocked by the result. I just hope it does not affect the confidences of the young ones and those first team players involved in that game.

we must refocus and fight for the league title.

btw, what do you guys think of Diaby performance?
do you think he can become a regular for us?

looks like he has lost some self confidence.

PS: I'm portuguese like you already know, and i'm learning english, so, i would like to know what meaning of "btw".

Will be "between" ? :blink:

thanks :silly:

i think coolman means "by the way". its commonly use in msn and icq. :)

back to the question: I think Diaby is still young and recovering from his injury nightmare. although a very poor performance, i think he is still young enough to be given a second chance.

The internal conflict between Adebayor and Bendtner is also not very good for the team.

yah. horrible to fight among teammates.

diaby had a better game last night but still not very convincing.
