
Preview of Day 16 - Crown Prince vs World Champions

Posted by Coolman!!! - 2008/06/22 17:43

The forever Crown Prince of soccer (spain) will be taking on the World Champions tonight.

Against an opponent they have never beaten, Spain will have a huge mountain to climb. While the spanish breezed through the group stages, the Italian basically crawled oever the finishing line. However, as usual, you can never write off a slow starting Italian team.

It will be a hard fought game.

My prediction: 2-1 to Spain.

Re:Preview of Day 16 - Crown Prince vs World Champions

Posted by LittleTT - 2008/06/22 17:45

Spain will win.....3-1

Re:Preview of Day 16 - Crown Prince vs World Champions

Posted by Coolman!!! - 2008/06/22 18:20

lets hope one of the winners of the group games go through. So far, the other winners are out.

Come on, Spain!

Re:Preview of Day 16 - Crown Prince vs World Champions

Posted by LittleTT - 2008/06/23 00:58

Spain0-0Italy

*Spain wins on penelty 4-2

A great match...

Oldies Italians dont have enough stamina to pass through 120minutes..

Re:Preview of Day 16 - Crown Prince vs World Champions

Posted by Coolman!!! - 2008/06/23 04:01

Aragones is a weird coach. He took off his best player (Torres) at the time when his team needs his goals most. Guiza went on to miss a sitter in the last few mins of the game.

Lucky for Spain, Casillas was on red hot form last night.

YEAH! We are in for a great match with Spain vs Russia!

Re:Preview of Day 16 - Crown Prince vs World Champions

Posted by Fabregas - 2008/06/23 06:22

Fabregas is KING! What a great penalty!

Re:Preview of Day 16 - Crown Prince vs World Champions

Posted by real gunner - 2008/06/23 06:35

We do not want to see another 0-0 when spain take on russia.

=====

Re:Preview of Day 16 - Crown Prince vs World Champions

Posted by LittleTT - 2008/06/23 07:08

Fabregas wrote:

Fabregas is KING! What a great penalty!

Yes...

He took the last penalty so calmly...:cheer:

=====