
Rumour: Roma and Milan are in for Bendtner

Posted by Coolman!!! - 2008/07/03 06:38

Il Corriere Dello reported today that Roma were set to pull off a transfer coup by beating Milan to the signature of the highly promising 20-year-old Danish striker.

However, Thomas Bendtner, father to Bendtner, told Danish daily Bold that there is no such thing at all. In addition, Wenger has stressed the need to keep his young team together on countless occasions, and recently singled Bendtner out for special praise, hinting that he will be given even more time to shine this coming season.

So once again, our strikers are involved in another rumour. How come no one is interested in Chelsea, Man U or Liverpool's strikers?

We should start some rumours that Real is in for Torres, Inter is in for Tevez and Milan is in for Drogba.

if we can get 30 million pounds for him, yes please. We do not need another promising youngster.

We should get rid of both of them. Bendtner is useless, all I ever see him do is screw up and then he walks around with his mouth hanging open, his hands on his head and a confused look on his face.
